Alger Hiss—Ghost Out of U.S. Past; Protect Bald Eagle

The Alger Hiss espionage case is back in the news like a ghost from America's recent past.

Hiss was indicted in 1948 and convicted of perjury in 1950 following a congressional investigation of the disappearance of Department of State documents. Whittaker Chambers, then a senior editor of Time Magazine and now dead, admitted to the congressmen he had been a Communist agent and disclosed microfilm (hidden in a pumpkin) which purported to be official documents that had been given him by Hiss, then a top State Department official and a companion of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, on his journey to the heads-of-state conference at Yalta.

Subsequently the Congress passed a law (1954) denying government pensions to persons convicted of perjury in national security cases. The law was made retroactive and Hiss was denied a government pension upon his release from federal prison in 1954.

Hiss got back in the news when he went into court seeking his pension.

And this week-end a three-judge federal court upheld his claim.

Two Presidents were involved in the case—F.D. Roosevelt under whom he served, and Richard Nixon who helped prosecute him as leader of the House Un-American Activities Committee investigating team.

Oddly enough, as the Associated Press points out, President Nixon nominated one of the judges who ruled for Hiss on his pension claim.

One of our wildlife scouts reported sighting a bald eagle on Millwood Reservoir's shore the other day, lending hope that the pair sighted there during the Summer have adopted this area as their home. Bald eagles are prevalent in northeast Arkansas, but usually are seen here only in the late Winter and early Spring when the shad die of natural causes in our lakes and the eagles come in to feed.

Which reminds us that a $500 bounty has been posted by the National Wildlife Federation for information leading to the conviction of any person for shooting a bald eagle.

One actual award has been made to law enforcement officers.

The bald eagle, America's national emblem, has been protected by federal law since 1940, but the National Wildlife Federation bolstered the law with a reward campaign starting in 1971 as the result of mass slaughter of eagles by hired agents of a Wyoming rancher.

Only 3,000 or 4,000 of the birds remain in the United States, and every outdoorsman will want to co-operate with the government in seeing that the species is protected against the man with a gun.

School Group Offers Recommendations

"The Auxiliary Subcommittee of the Citizens Committee for Better Quality Schools, after investigation, offer the following recommendations and suggestions:"

LUNCHROOMS

1. The lunchrooms of Hope School District are self-supporting because of federal funds and are not operating at a loss. We find the food good and commend the lunchroom staff. However, we do need more participation by the students in high school.

2. The high school lunchroom needs renovating, which should include smaller tables and replacing stools with chairs.

3. In order for teachers to return to other duties a teacher line seems desirable.

4. We suggest the Student Council follow through on their responsibility to clean up around their vending machines.

5. It would benefit the operation of lunchlines if teachers assigned to supervise are on the job. The ad-

Judge Orders Editor Arrested and Jailed

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Circuit Court Judge John W. Goodson today ordered Harry Wood, editor of the Texarkana Gazette and News, arrested and jailed so Wood can be forced to appear in court and answer a contempt citation issued because the Gazette published a story on a trial verdict against the judge's orders.

Goodson, apparently irked because Wood failed to appear voluntarily to answer a contempt citation, said Miller County officers should notify him as soon as Wood is in jail even if the arrest is made at 3 a.m. Wood did not appear in court as part of strategy in fighting the case. His attorney, Bill Arnold, tried unsuccessfully during a 20-minute hearing to argue that Goodson did not have jurisdiction because Wood lives in Texas and the Gazette is a Texas newspaper, not subject to orders from an Arkansas judge.

Chief Deputy Quits Secy. of State Job

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Secretary of State Kelly Bryant's chief deputy for the past five years has quit in a dispute with Bryant.

Mrs. Mary Laing said she quit effective last Tuesday.

Informed of her statement, Bryant said it was all news to him.

Mrs. Laing's has not been in the office since last week but Bryant said he thought she had been working at home preparing legislative revisions in the election code for official printing.

"She's still on the payroll," the secretary of state said. "...I presume she'll let me know if she wants off."

Mrs. Laing revealed her action to newsmen who contacted her after noticing that she had been absent from her desk. Rumors were afloat at the Capitol that she had resigned to run for secretary of state.

Mrs. Laing said she had no intention of running for the office, although she said she had received some encouragement to make the race.

She said she resigned because Bryant had refused to provide someone to help her with her work. She said the office had an authorized but unfilled position of assistant chief deputy.

"For a year I've begged, pleaded, practically gotten down on my knees asking for help," she said. "I've not got one soul to help me."

Finally, she said, she called Bryant last Tuesday night to renew her request for help.

"He hung up in my face," Mrs. Laing said.

She said she then decided to quit.

First Box for Muskie

DIXVILLE NOTCH, N.H. (AP) — The 17 registered voters of this tiny far north resort community opened the 1972 presidential balloting at one minute past midnight today, casting their votes for the New Hampshire presidential primary in a hotel bar.

President Nixon swept all 11 Republican votes cast. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine won a 5-1 decision over Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota in the six Democratic ballots.

More newsmen and television cameramen than voters were on hand for the event.

Town Clerk Frederick Tillotson, 25, said the town "votes first in the nation so that possibly we can be heard."

Kleindienst, Anderson to Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst returns to the witness chair at a Senate committee hearing today for a possible confrontation with his accuser.

Kleindienst and newspaper columnist Jack Anderson were scheduled to testify at a Judiciary Committee hearing on why the Justice Department dropped an antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

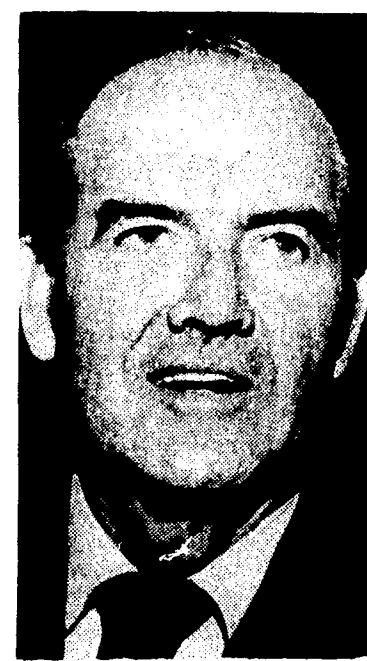

Anderson has written that the suit was dropped after ITT pledged to contribute $400,000 to defray expenses of the Republican National Convention. He has accused Kleindienst of playing an important role in the decision to drop the suit.

Others scheduled to testify today were former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Richard McLaren who was in charge of the department's antitrust division before his appointment to the bench, and Felix Rohatyn, an ITT director.

State Welfare Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, says his committee is asking Gov. Dale Bumpers to investigate welfare practices in Arkansas.

In an interview Monday with Little Rock television station KARK-TV, Long's office said the senator's committee is asking Bumpers to see if there are any federal violations in Arkansas in connection with welfare practices.

The Senate Finance Committee, which is considering a welfare reform bill, made the request of Bumpers based on testimony by Pros. Atty. Sam Weems of Des Arc. Investigations by Weems have led to 38 grand jury indictments in Arkansas and Lonoke counties on charges of food stamp fraud. Also indicted on being an accessory after the fact was Ivan Smith, chief attorney for the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services. Weems sent copies of the indictments to Long's committee.

Long's office says the committee wants to determine if the indictments represent isolated incidents of alleged welfare fraud or whether such incidents are common throughout the state. Long's office said Weems' testimony solidified the committee's intention to close loopholes in welfare laws.

Weems said he was grateful that the committee was investigating possible violations.

Bumpers, contacted Monday night at the Governor's Mansion, said he had not received a request for the investigation and refused to comment further pending Long's inquiry.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire voters cast the first primary ballots of 1972 today in an important test of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's standing as front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Muskie appealed for a big vote as a near-native from neighboring Maine in a campaign that ended with a barrage of charges between himself and Sen. George S. McGovern over which had been first to disclose the source of campaign funds.

"If I can't get help from my friends close to home, I don't know where to expect it," Muskie told 200 supporters as he wound up his campaign Monday night in the north country paper mill town of Berlin, just 40 miles from his Rumford, Maine, birthplace.

Two hours later, even closer to the Canadian border in the hamlet of Dixville Notch, voters gathered at midnight to cast the day's first votes. All 11 Republicans voted for President Nixon, while Muskie took five of six Democratic votes. McGovern had the other.

Polling hours elsewhere varied, with some opening as early as 6 a.m. EST and some closing as late as 8 p.m. With paper ballots in widespread use and a long list of delegate candidates, the vote count threatened to be slow.

Muskie was favored to defeat McGovern and three other on-the-ballot foes and one write-in contender in the Democratic preference vote. But the Maine senator's percentage was considered crucial for judging his performance.

Aerial Attacks on North Vietnam Are Stepped Up

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots stepped up their attacks on North Vietnam Monday and reported another enemy jet fighter downed in the biggest dogfight in more than three years.

It was the sixth successive day of American attacks inside North Vietnam, and more than a score of planes struck at half a dozen antiaircraft installations, military spokesman reported.

North Vietnam claimed two American planes were shot down, but the U.S. Command said all American aircraft returned safely despite missiles, cannon and antiaircraft artillery shells fired at them.

Two pilots from the carrier Coral Sea, Lt. Garry Weigand of Columbus, Ohio, and Lt. (j.g.) Bill Freckleton of Huntington Beach, Calif., were credited with shooting down a MIG17 interceptor over the Quang Lan airfield 150 miles south of Hanoi. It was the fourth MIG kill credited to U.S. pilots this year and the 115th of the war.

According to the pilots' accounts:

North Vietnamese gunners fired antiaircraft artillery and missiles at a Navy reconnaissance Phantom jet and four A6 and A7 fighters escorting it, then four MIG17s and a MIG21 rose to challenge the American planes.

The A6s and A7s attacked the ground defenses, while four F4 Phantoms flying cover took on the MIGs in a five-minute duel.

One MIG17 was seen to crash into a hillside, the U.S. Command said.

It was the biggest dogfight since President Lyndon B. Johnson halted the full-scale bombing of North Vietnam on Nov. 1, 1968.

Summing up the air attacks Monday, the U.S. Command said Air Force and Navy fighter escorts unleashed scores of bombs and missiles at half a dozen antiaircraft artillery sites and two air defense radar sites that either fired at or threatened American missions over North Vietnam and neighboring Laos.

Pilots said they believe they destroyed a radar site 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone, but results of the other strikes were not known.

Military sources attributed the intensified air action to clear skies over North Vietnam and explained that reconnaissance flights have been increased to take advantage of the weather.

The U.S. Command has reported 19 attacks inside North Vietnam since last Wednesday, raising the total this year to 86.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry claimed the attacks killed or wounded many civilians, but the U.S. Command said all the targets were antiaircraft installations.

Tells How Activists Plotted Kidnapping

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Government informant Boyd Douglas Jr. says seven anti-war activists on trial for conspiracy panicked and accused him of being the leak after FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told of an alleged plot to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger.

The Hoover disclosure on Nov. 27, 1970, killed the plan to grab Kissinger as he flew by the militant Catholic left against the Vietnam War, Douglas testified Monday.

He added that it also torpedoed a major project set for Washington's Birthday 1971, to blow up tunnels that carry heat to all federal buildings in the nation's capital.

"Did you deny at the time that you were the leak?" U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman asked.

"Yes," the 31-year-old ex-convict responded, as he concluded his direct testimony as the government's chief witness, and court adjourned for the day.

The defense worked late into the night preparing for the start today of cross examination that is expected to last at least a week.

The lawyers for the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six codefendants said they plan to use Douglas' prison and medical records in an effort to destroy the credibility of his testimony and depict it as a fable of a vivid imagination.

Douglas took the stand Feb. 28 and, over six court days,

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, The National Foundation-March of Dimes is leading the fight to prevent birth defects; and

WHEREAS, the ultimate goal of this fight is to guarantee the gift of health to every American newborn; and

WHEREAS, the proof of the need to make this effort lies in some 250,000 Americans born each year with birth defects; and

WHEREAS, public contributions have made it possible for the March of Dimes to establish a network of more than 100 medical service programs across the country for research, education, medical, and community services; and

WHEREAS, the massive research needed to uncover the basic causes of birth defects remains to be done,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Dr. Sam W. Strong, Jr., Mayor, of Hope, Arkansas do hereby proclaim March 11, 1972 as MARCH OF DIMES WALK-ATHON DAY, knowing that the people of Hope will respond as they always have to a cause which will benefit, in the true tradition of equality, our children and our children's children.

to give more individual attention where needed, promote a better band program at Yerger and allow a band program at Hopewell. The sixth grade is the desirable age to introduce children to band.

4. We suggest that more community interest be shown in the band, both by band parents and others.

5. We recommend the school buy the band uniforms as funds are made available.

6. A music program is sorely needed in the elementary schools. There is no music appreciation taught now.

ATHLETICS

1. Our senior high and junior high physical education facilities are seriously inadequate for the number of students. At junior high both large girls classes and large boys classes meet at the same time in the gym, making an average of 80 students using the gym each period. We recommend that a folding petition be installed to separate the two classes.

2. As to new equipment needed, we especially need two side court goals for each end of the gym, at Yerger and High School.

3. Beginning the school term 72-73, the uniforms and shoes should be purchased for girls basketball as well as for boys basketball.

4. Dressing rooms at the stage area should be built to alleviate crowded facilities, at Yerger.

5. We recommend a physical education building at Yerger because of lack of space. This could be used for all activities carried out by the physical education department.

6. At least there is a need for a hard surface outdoor court. This could be accomplished immediately with very little funds involved, at Yerger.

7. Students participating in athletic programs during school hours should either continue their athletic program the full year or be reassigned after the regular season.

8. We should work toward a physical education program in the elementary schools.

9. We recommend that the curtailment or modification of all auxiliary agencies be considered unless sufficient income becomes available to meet maintenance and other essential expenses of the school district.

GENERAL

1. It seems more authority should be delegated to provide closer supervision over the many individual departments of our school, especially maintenance and upkeep.

2. Because of a safety problem, we suggest a study of a recommendation that cars remain parked on campus from time of arrival until school is dismissed in the afternoon.

"Finally, the majority of the problems we face in Hope School District are caused by inadequate finances. We can be competitive in choosing our teachers when we can be competitive with their salaries. We have had inflation that has affected our schools as well as everything else. In order to have quality education our schools must be adequately financed."

The above report was given by Bill Gunter, Chairman of the Auxiliary Sub-committee, at the meeting held Thursday night in Hope City Hall courtroom. The recommendations will be submitted to Hope School Board.

Thinks Coordination of All U.S. Data Would Be Blunder

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former presidential press secretaries say it would be a blunder to require the White House to coordinate all federal information.

The chief executive's top spokesman should keep in touch with administration information officers, George Reedy told Congress Monday, but "if you were ever to establish as a principle that information were to be coordinated from the White House, I think you could forget freedom of information and access to information and everything else."

"The way the public really does get a break is that the government is so huge that frequently the left hand does not know what the right hand is doing—that's the way the public learns something from time to time," said Reedy, press secretary to former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

James C. Hagerty agreed that the president's press secretary should stay close to major problems. But "to try to coordinate various branches of the federal government on what they are putting out," he said, "forget it—you just can't do it, it just couldn't possibly work."

Hagerty was press secretary to President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But Arthur Sylvester, former assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, maintained that government needs to speak "with one voice responsibly, so the people can hold it accountable. But if everybody is yacking, nobody's responsible."

Hagerty, Reedy and Sylvester were among former federal spokesmen testifying on the opening day of the House government information subcommittee's hearings on governmental secrecy policies.

Hagerty said he found the classification system was abused with widespread regularity by "stamp-happy" bureaucrats.

There were times when he had to go to Eisenhower for on-the-spot declassification of documents due for release at an upcoming news conference yet "literally covered with classified stamps, including the highest ratings."

Hagerty added: "And, believe me, the only thing that was 'top secret' was what he was saying to me while he was declassifying these papers—it was a lot of nonsense."

Heir to Key Post Is 80 Years Old

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heir-apparent to the chairmanship of the House Rules Committee is an 80-year-old Hoosier who says he owes the people so much he can't afford to retire.

"All along I've told the people that seniority is important and they can't get any special favors unless their congressman has it," Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., said Monday.

"Now, I've got seniority and I can't turn my back on their investment in me."

Madden became next in line for the chairmanship Monday when Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., announced he is retiring after 40 years in Congress.

Madden, a sandy-haired bachelor who has served 30 years in the House, will take over the job if he survives another election campaign and the Democrats retain control of the House.

Colmer is a conservative; Madden a liberal.

A native of Waseca, Minn., and a representative in Congress from the Calumet district in northwest Indiana since 1943, Madden is not concerned about whispered suggestions of some juniors that he step aside and reap the fruits of the congressional pension plan.

"Everybody in Lake County

(Indiana) knows I was 78 years old two years ago," he said in an interview. "The people know my record. If they didn't, I wouldn't have been here for 30 years."

Madden still walks briskly and likes an occasional game of golf. He's not adverse to a drink of whisky but is not a heavy imbiber.

Madden always has been a strong party man.

"I believe in the two-party system," he said. "Both parties have their platform and the people know what they are. I follow the platform of my party. If you're elected on a platform, you should support it. To do otherwise would be dishonest."

Madden said he doesn't intend to "be a rubber stamp" if he becomes chairman of the Rules Committee.

"I will go along with party policy," he said. "The members have a right to an opportunity to vote on matters of party policy, even if I should disagree with that policy."

That could be a big change in the committee's direction.

The 15-member panel has a dominant voice in deciding the fate of legislation. Most major bills can't get to a House vote if the Rules Committee objects.

Its decisions often depend on the thinking of a coalition of conservative Republicans and Democrats. Efforts to weaken the grip of the coalition have been made from time to time since 1952 but without lasting effect.

Colmer and his immediate predecessor as chairman, Howard W. Smith, D-Va., have sided with and led the coalition.

Type of Cancer Is Now Under Control

HOUSTON (AP) — A one-time treatment of patients suffering from a form of bone marrow and blood cancer by depriving them of Vitamin B2 has brought on an arresting of the disease, researchers at Baylor College of Medicine said Monday.

One patient now has been without symptoms of the disease, called polycythemia vera, for four years, reported Dr. Montague Lane, professor of pharmacology and medicine at the school.

So far, with three patients treated and one undergoing treatment, the three have been without symptoms, he said. But since the disease is a slow malignancy which may take many years to be fatal, it is too early to say if the vitamin deprivation treatment will be successful, Lane said.

Polycythemia vera is a disease in which the bone marrow produces an abnormal amount of red blood cells. It also increases production of white blood cells and blood platelets, which are necessary for clotting.

Unlike the two traditional forms of treatment—periodically bleeding the patient or treating with potent anti-cancer drugs which may have side effects or loose their effectiveness, the deprivation treatment is used just once.

Lane emphasized that many more patients must be treated before any definite statements about its effectiveness can be made.

Persons with polycythemia vera frequently suffer with abnormal bleeding and clotting, headaches, dizziness and other symptoms. The patient has a high risk of developing leukemia and can also die of a stroke, heart attack or other complications.

Doctors say because the cause of death may finally be attributed to something else, doctors are not certain how widespread polycythemia vera is.

Dr. Frank Smith, assistant professor of pharmacology and medicine, estimated that the disease is less common than leukemia and appears most commonly in the middle aged and males.

The treatment developed at Baylor involves the withdrawal of B2, also known as riboflavin, for four to six weeks.

Lane and Smith said they stumbled onto the treatment while studying anti-cancer drugs. They noticed that one drug, galactoflavin, blocked the effect of riboflavin on the body and also turned off red cell production.

The doctors decided to see what the process would do with patients with polycythemia vera. They put the patients on a riboflavin-free liquid diet and administered the drug.

"We stopped the red cell production until the patients became somewhat anemic," said Lane. The white cell and platelet production also dropped.

After treatment, the patient's blood became abnormal again for a short period, but then turned normal and remained normal until the present.

One patient underwent treatment four years ago and one three years ago. The third started a year ago.

"We are not aware of natural remissions (spontaneous returns to normal) in this disease," Lane said, although he added such remissions have sometime come after anti-cancer drug treatments.

Lane said they do not know exactly how or why the therapy works. Like other cancers, polycythemia vera's basic cause is not known, he said.

Plane Hijacked

MIAMI (AP) — Two men with shotguns commandeered a twin-engine seaplane today, wounded the pilot and a ground crewman and—after a shootout with police—forced the co-pilot to fly them to Havana.

Five passengers were taken along for the ride and one fled to safety when the shooting started, said police officer C. L. Reynolds.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the plane landed in Havana at 11:15 a.m. EST, approximately two hours after the two men jumped aboard the plane as it was preparing to leave an island base in Miami on a scheduled flight to Bimini in the Bahamas.

FAA officials said they had no immediate word about the co-pilot, Bob Wallace or any of the five passengers who went to Cuba.

Fireworks Blast Probed

ORLAND PARK, Ill. (AP) — Investigators combed the ruins of a 14-building fireworks-manufacturing complex today seeking the cause of a series of explosions that virtually obliterated it, killed two persons, injured 19 and hurled shock waves as far as 25 miles.

A succession of explosions, variously reported at eight to 14, rocked the area some 23 miles southwest of downtown Chicago Monday, severely damaged many buildings within a half-mile radius and blew out windows for miles around.

Partly buried magazines, where Melrose Display Fireworks Co. stored its wares, erupted in flames and smoke about 2 p.m. when most of the working force of 30 persons was on coffee break away from the scene. Officials said this probably held down the loss of life.

No damage estimate was made at once.

There were two confirmed deaths. The report of a third death, still unconfirmed, apparently was based on a report by an employee that a friend was known to have been in one of the buildings when it exploded.

Roaring flames and the threat of more explosions balked quick rescue efforts and delayed firefighting forces of half a dozen adjoining communities.

Flames that spread to the open area of the two-mile-square site of the fireworks factory were extinguished by 6 p.m.

Fire Chief Arthur Granat of Orland Park said the cause of the explosions was unknown.

Granat said the 14 buildings were concrete block with wood roofs. All were leveled.

Feb. 17 a story about the rape conviction of Eugene E. Sumler of Texarkana. The conviction was returned in open court but Goodson said in the contempt citation that, despite this, he did not consider it a public record.

Goodson wanted the story withheld because related cases were scheduled for hearing the next day. When these came up, however, Goodson declined to delay them because of prejudicial publicity.

At the start of today's hearing, Goodson chastised Arnold, who was Goodson's predecessor on the Circuit Court bench, for failing to appear in chambers 15 minutes before the proceedings to file his motions. This is a court rule, Goodson told Arnold, "as you knew when you sat on this bench." Arnold apologized for the oversight, then he made four motions, all of which were overruled.

The first concerned whether the citation, served on Wood at the Gazette office in Texas, was a valid legal service. Goodson said that it was notification enough.

Arnold then asked the judge to disqualify himself because he was "directly and personally involved" in the case. "Overruled," snapped Goodson.

The judge also overruled motions seeking to have the case dismissed because the citation failed to state sufficient grounds for holding Wood in contempt and another motion to dismiss centered on Wood's allegation that he has a perfect right under the 1st Amendment (the freedom of the press amendment) of the U.S. Constitution to report on any proceeding in open court.

Defense officials said the new triple warheads discussed by Laird are being fitted on the Soviet SS11, a missile similar to the U.S. Minuteman ICBM which carries a nuclear warhead equal to one million tons of TNT.

They say there is also some evidence—not yet confirmed—that the multiple warheads are being mounted on the Soviet's giant SS9 missiles which, with their 25-megaton warhead, threaten destruction of Minuteman missiles and their underground silos.

Reds Improve Missiles

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is adding multiple warheads to its land-based missiles and Defense Department officials estimate the Russians will have 85 to 100 in operation by midyear.

Development of these weapons has been under way for several years and the Pentagon confirmed last month that they are being deployed. However, numbers were not disclosed until Monday after Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird referred to their deployment in a speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Defense officials said the new triple warheads discussed by Laird are being fitted on the Soviet SS11, a missile similar to the U.S. Minuteman ICBM which carries a nuclear warhead equal to one million tons of TNT.

They say there is also some evidence—not yet confirmed—that the multiple warheads are being mounted on the Soviet's giant SS9 missiles which, with their 25-megaton warhead, threaten destruction of Minuteman missiles and their underground silos.

Laird acknowledged the Russian warheads are not as sophisticated as the separately aimed multiple warheads already on large numbers of U.S. missiles. These are called MIRVs or multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles.

Aides later said that the re-entry system referred to by Laird has been tested on Russian SS9 missiles. U.S. officials say the Soviets have been unable to achieve the required accuracy with this system to assure destruction of U.S. ICBM sites.

But Laird, plugging hard for passage of his new $76.5-billion defense budget, cautioned that the two-year lead he said the United States holds in ICBM warhead technology "could be rapidly closed if we do not maintain a strong research-and-development program."

By the Pentagon's latest count, the Russians have more missiles than the United States, but because of MIRVs, the United States holds a 2-1 edge in the number of deliverable nuclear warheads.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. JARRELL DEE IRBY

The First Baptist Church was the scene for Saturday evening, March 4, wedding of Miss Darla Kay James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Henry James, and Jarrell Dee Irby, son of the Reverend and Mrs. Eugene Fredrick Irby of North Little Rock.

The nuptial music was presented by Mrs. W. H. Peterson, Jr., organist, and Mrs. Bob Bledsoe, soloist. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was the groom's father, assisted by the Reverend Gerald Trussell, pastor of the Church. Vows were exchanged before an arch of huckleberry greenery intermingled with pink candles. A candle tree and a white basket of mixed flowers were placed at each end of the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza designed on Victorian lines enhanced by a white lace bodice trimmed with touches of pink velvet. The finger-tip veil by Prescilla cascaded from a white Juliet cap adorned with white lace florets. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink roses, baby's breath, asters and stephanotis.

Mrs. David Griffin was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Bruce Munson of Abilene, Texas; Mrs. Kemp Nall of Sheridan; Mrs. Richard Daniel of Florence, Alabama; Miss Jayne Alsopough of Smackover; and Miss Lynn Irby of North Little Rock, sister of the groom. They wore identical pink dresses of chiffon with gathered scoop necklines, long sheer sleeves, and embroidered flowers on the cummerbunds. They carried colonial bouquets.

Don Irby of North Little Rock, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Stan James, brother of the bride; Phil Byers of Little Rock; Dan Bradford, Chuck Hicks and Paul Bankston, all of North Little Rock.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. James chose a dress of pink chiffon with matching accessories. Mrs. Irby, the groom's mother, wore a dress of blue chiffon with matching accessories. Each had a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mrs. George Wright, Sr. greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line.

The house party consisted of Miss Betsy Franks, Miss Delia Jordan, Mrs. J. W. Franks, Mrs. George Wright, Jr., all of Hope; Miss Ann Clark, El Dorado; Miss Tina Thompson, Rison; Miss Dee Sasser, Pine Bluff; Miss Beverly Spikes, and Mrs. Billy Gilbert, both of Crossett; Mrs. Wayne Griffith, Magnolia; Mrs. Calvin Blake, Sheridan; Mrs. John Kelly, Amite, La.; and Mrs. James Turley, Nashville.

The bride's table was covered with white eyelet over pink centered with silver epergne of mixed flowers and pink candles. A tiered wedding cake was served with punch and mints. The groom's table was covered with a brown cloth that was centered with gold-colored candles in brass. Here, chocolate cake and coffee were served.

Before the wedding couple left, little Misses Karen Gilbert of Crossett and Charlotte Stovall of Pine Bluff and Master Scott Griffith of Magnolia dispensed rice bags. Scrolls with a verse of appreciation from the newlyweds were distributed to the guests, also.

For their honeymoon trip to the Red Apple Inn in Heber Springs, the bride wore a navy and orange dress with navy accessories and pinned her mother's corsage at her shoulder. When they return, Mr. and Mrs. Irby will be at home at 1004 South Elm in Hope.

Rehearsal Dinner
On Friday, March 3 the Reverend and Mrs. Eugene Irby of North Little Rock were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at Linnbert's Restaurant for the James-Irby wedding party. Covers were laid for 35 at tables decorated with multi-colored arrangements and candles.

The bride-elect, Miss Darla James, was attired in a long floral dress and pinned a corsage of multi-colored flowers at her shoulder. She and her fiancé, Jerry Irby, chose this time to present gifts to the members of the wedding.

Tiny Tim Divorcing His Teenage Bride

NEW YORK (AP) — The tulips have apparently turned to thorns in that celebrated late-night television marriage of falsetto singer Tiny Tim and his teen-age bride Miss Vicky. "This thing kills me to the bone," Tim said Monday, tearfully confirming that he has filed for a legal separation two years after they were married on Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show before 20 million witnesses.

Miss Vicky and the couple's 10-month-old daughter, Tulip Victoria, were staying with her parents in Haddonfield, N.J., but she was declining to take telephone calls from newsmen.

"The wedding ring will always stay on my finger," Tim reportedly told friends. "She is still my sweet angel and I love her now more than ever."

Tim, whose real name is Herbert Buckingham Khaury, met the former Victoria May Budinger in a Philadelphia department store where he was autographing copies of his book, "Beautiful Thoughts."

She was 17 when they tiptoed together through 10,000 tulips—a setting inspired by his best-known recording—on the Carson show Dec. 17, 1969. Each promised to be "sweet, gentle, kind, patient, not puffed up, charitable, slow to anger and swift to forgive."

"Basically I'm broke, but she knew before we got married

The basic defensive signal is the play of an unnecessarily high card to show strength or at least to ask your partner to lead that suit to you. This is the basic use of this high-card play.

Suppose it is clear to your partner that you can't want him to lead this particular suit. Then what does a high-card play mean?

It doesn't mean that you are wasting some spots for the sheer joy of wasting them.

It may be a suit preference signal to ask your partner to lead a high-ranking suit as spades or hearts instead of a low-ranking suit such as clubs or diamonds but it is more likely that you are starting a high-low play to show that you hold an even number of cards in the suit.

South played dummy's 10 of spades at trick one. He hoped it would hold but East produced the king. South let it hold but had to win the spade continuation. Then he led a diamond.

West ducked. He could see all those potential diamond winners if he rose with the ace. South won in dummy while East dropped the four.

South returned to his hand with a club and led his last diamond. If West had ducked this also, South would have romped off with his contract, but West had no problem at all. He took his ace and cleared the spade suit.

East had played his lowest diamond the first time. This showed an odd number of cards in the suit so West knew that South had started with just two diamonds.

Nosy Neighbors Need Nudge

Dear Sue and Helen:

This is another nosy neighbor complaint.

This summer I was called a "husband stealer" because a married man brought me home. (I'd been on a date with his brother who got sick.)

Another night I was baby-sitting and this guy and I were in the kitchen with the shades up. Our neighbor just happened to be at her window behind the big green plant she uses for cover. Anyway, we turned out the kitchen lights and went upstairs to the family room where there was only a small light burning. She called the police! Why? Because I was in my house with the lights out with a boy! (My cousin and her guy and another couple were also in that room.)

I'm the tramp of the neighborhood because "I do things on my front porch that she wouldn't do in her bedroom." (Boy, I feel sorry for her husband!) Actually, I was only kissing my boy friend goodnight.

And the word went out that I was pregnant because I wore an empire dress—then went to New York for an abortion, when I was only visiting friends for the weekend. When I come out in hotpants, you should hear the party line!

What do I do about it?—Go out of my way to give Old Nosy more to talk about? Just think of all the fun she'd miss if I quit providing her with gossip. So I grin and bear it—heavy on the grin.

Wouldn't you, Sue?—ANOTHER VICTIM OF NOSY NEIGHBORS

Dear AVONN:

You're right: Grin and bear it. If we stopped to commit suicide every time somebody gossiped about us, there'd be an awful mess.

But don't go out of your way to give Old Nosy something for the party line. Let others know you think highly of yourself, even if she doesn't. And when she peeks from behind the big plant—stare her down!—SUE

Dear Victim:

My daughter, the "grin and bear it" type? I can't believe what I read!

Hope your parents not only stare down Mrs. Nosy, but also put her down hard if she spreads any more rumors. When gossip becomes slander, a threatened lawsuit sometimes shuts a big mouth.—HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I am a 21-year-old bride. My husband's grandmother comes from the hill country and chews tobacco. She's 75, stops by for a visit often, and drives me crazy. You see, I have new off-white carpeting. She brings along a canning jar for spitting tobacco, but she doesn't see very well, and either misses it or upsets it on my rugs. You can't remove tobacco stains from shag.

I've been brought up to respect old age. Besides Granny is superstitious. What can I do?—GRANDDAUGHTER-IN-DISTRESS

Dear Granddaughter: Maybe you can live up to (or with) Granny's exhortations (cq) by putting a protective strip of plastic wrap beneath her tobacco jar. This might also make her more aware of her aim in life.—HELEN

DEAR G.I.D.: I'd rather keep Granny busy with gum or something to eat, and suggest she leave her plug at home. (Pun's fun, Mom, but could you honestly visit with somebody who chewed and spit tobacco?)—SUE

(GOT A PROBLEM? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel—or both, in care of this newspaper, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Jackie Tells How She Avoided Photographer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has testified that she once sneaked out the back of her own apartment to avoid being dogged all night by photographer Ronald E. Galella. He found her anyway, she said.

Dressed in black and trembling occasionally, Mrs. Onassis testified all day Monday in a packed federal courtroom where the trial of rival lawsuits has entered its fourth week.

Mrs. Onassis, who wants Galella ordered to stay away from her and her children, described incidents since 1969 in which she said the photographer has butted into her social affairs.

She also described the lengths which she has gone to elude Galella, who has based his recent career on photographing the former first lady and her family.

After learning that the photographer was outside her Fifth Avenue apartment house one night, Mrs. Onassis testified, she left "from a rear door and walked down a dark street, where people have been mugged, to meet a limousine."

But when she reached the limousine parked on Madison Avenue, she testified, Galella raced up and snapped her picture.

Nicklaus Is Top Money Winner in Pro Golf

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus flipped another $30,000 into his bank's night deposit chute on the way home after streaking past Arnold Palmer as golf's all-time dollar king.

The 24-karat Golden Bear then pondered other goals.

"Money's nice ... darn, it's essential," said Nicklaus, "But winning major championships—the big four—is my personal barometer. It was nice to pass Palmer, but I've still got to catch Bobby Jones."

Nicklaus' windup 70 in Monday's fourth round of the $150,000 Doral-Eastern open didn't approximate his 64 of Sunday for excitement, but it got the job done with a 12-under-par total of 276.

Lee Trevino got nowhere, shooting even-par 72 for 278 and a tie for second money of $13,875 with 66-shooter Bob Rosburg. Sam Snead, the 59-year-old marvel, also had 72 on a blustery afternoon for a fourth-place 279 and $7,050.

Nicklaus' payday gave him $1,477,206.86 for slightly over 10 years as a pro since leaving the Ohio State campus. Palmer, 10 years older at age 42, has a lifetime tour bankroll of $1,471,226.83.

"The older I get, the more I enjoy golf," said Nicklaus, who lives 90 minutes up the Florida Turnpike at Lost Tree Village. "I got tired of golf in the mid-1960s. Winning came too easily. I took it for granted."

At 32, he is content and seems better than ever.

"Robert Tyre Jones won 13 major titles in his great career," said Jack. "I have taken 11, nine pro and two U.S. amateurs. Nothing would be bigger for me than to win the grand slam in one year and to surpass Mr. Jones' total."

Nicklaus logged rounds of 71-71-64-70 to win his 36th tour title. He seemed to relish upstaging friendly rival Palmer, but refused to allow his multi-million dollar cache to overshadow the old timers.

Snead, despite 84 victories, has earned $499,000.

"At my age," said Snead, "You have to be happy to stay so close to these boys. Nicklaus is as great a player as I've ever seen and I enjoyed being paired with him in the last round."

Cougars Have Filed Suit

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association have announced the filing in U.S. District Court in Atlanta Monday of an antitrust suit against several individuals and the National Basketball Association, charging that the older league conspired to pirate Jim McDaniels.

The suit says the NBA is trying to "pirate players and superstars from the ABA with intent to create a monopoly in major league basketball."

Central Beats Jonesboro

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock Central got off to a slow start, but finally put it together to defeat Jonesboro 79-63 in the first round of the state Class AAA-AAAA basketball tournament here Monday.

In other games, North Little Rock defeated Forrest City 61-50 and Fort Smith Northside whipped rival Fort Smith Southside 53-46.

Central led 21-16 at the end of the first quarter after Fred Allen and Danny McDaniel each pumped in eight points for the Tigers.

The Tiger margin expanded to 37-26 at halftime and was 59-42 at the end of three periods.

Allen hit 28 points to top all scorers. High for Jonesboro was Don Hansen with 17.

North Little Rock jumped to an early lead and barely held on for the victory over Forrest City.

The Wildcats built up a 35-25 halftime lead, but Forrest City tied the game with 4:30 remaining. North Little Rock then managed to dump in eight straight points and use a delay game to wrap up the victory.

Paul Adams led North Little Rock with 16 points. Melvin Miller paced Forrest City with 13.

Tom Carson scored 20 points to lead the Grizzlies to victory.

Northside led 14-7 at the half and maintained a seven-point margin the remainder of the game. Both teams scored eight points in the second quarter and both teams had 31 points in the second half.

Bill Baker led the Rebels with 18.

Dennis Seidenschwarz paced Stuttgart with 22 points.

Morrilton's Billy Murray had 18 points to take scoring honors for the Devil Dogs.

In other Class AA games, Van Buren dumped Trumann 61-54 and Camden Fairview defeated Harrison 41-28.

Steve Sharp led Harrison with nine points and Joe Roberson paced the Cardinals with 16.

Van Buren trailed 49-43 going into the final period, but rallied to win going away.

Fears finished with 24 points and Reese had 22.

Darrell McWayne had 18 for Trumann.

UCLA Still Tops in College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This is the last week the rest of the nation's basketball powers have a chance to catch UCLA—but they'd have a better chance trying to catch the Abominable Snowman or Loch Ness Monster.

The anything-but-abominable Bruins from Los Angeles, who fastened their usual vice-like grip on first place in The Associated Press college basketball poll before the season even began, have now made their supremacy all but official.

Their perfect record through 25 games—including victories last week by a surprisingly narrow 85-71 over California and a more typical 102-73 against Stanford—earned them all 32 first-place votes and 640 points Monday in the next-to-last balloting by a nationwide panel of sportswriters and sports broadcasters before they begin the defense of their national championship in the NCAA playoffs.

Among their followers in the Top Ten rankings, the Quakers from Pennsylvania made the biggest improvement, vaulting from fourth to second with 402 points. Penn is 23-2 this season.

That dropped North Carolina and Louisville down one notch apiece, the Tar Heels taking third with 389 points and the Cardinals fourth with 377. Each team lost once last week while the Quakers swept all three of their contests.

Long Beach State didn't play a game all week but still managed to move up a notch to fifth with 375 points in the voting and South Carolina matched Penn's two-place jump by bounding from eighth to sixth with 352 following its three-game sweep last week.

But Marquette, feeling the loss of star Jim Chones even more, lost to New Mexico State and, despite a pair of victories, slipped from fifth to seventh, followed by Brigham Young, down one spot, Southwestern Louisiana, up two places to ninth and Marshall, down one to 10th.

In the Second Ten, Memphis State came out of nowhere to shoot up from 20th to No. 11 on the strength of a pair of victories; Hawaii jumped from No. 15 to 12, Maryland moved up nicely from 18th to 13th, Florida State dropped out of the Top Ten to 14th, Virginia slipped three places to No. 15, Minnesota came out of the also-ran crowd to take 16th, Oral Roberts retained 17th, Missouri edged up one spot to 18th, Houston spun from 13th to 19th and Indiana, surprising Ohio State last week, took over No. 20 as the Buckeyes, 14th a week ago, fell completely out of the ratings.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, won-lost records through games of Saturday, March 4 and total points on the basis of 20 for first, 18 for second, 16, 14, 12, 10, 9, 8, etc.

1. UCLA (32) 25-0 640
2. Penn 23-2 402
3. North Carolina 21-4 389
4. Louisville 21-3 377
5. Long Beach St. 23-3 375

Celtics Lose Overtime

(AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks and Boston Celtics, who could meet in the National Basketball Association final playoffs, went at each other Monday night like they wanted to split up the championship spoils then and there.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored six of his 45 points in overtime as the defending champion Bucks prevailed 132-127 in a thriller that Coach Larry Costello said was "like going through a world war."

No other games were played in the NBA and no games were scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

"It was unbelievable," Costello said. "Here we are, not playing aggressive and getting behind by 16 in the first quarter, then playing our heads off to come back and almost lose it on an out-of-bounds play."

John Havlicek, who led the Celtics with 34 points, forced the overtime with a steal and basket that tied the score at 118-118 at the end of regulation play.

The lead changed hands 11 times in the frantic fourth quarter.

Abdul-Jabbar put in two hook shots and a pair of free throws as the Bucks jumped to a 124-120 lead in the overtime. Two free throws by Curtis Perry proved decisive, making it 128-121, but the Celtics scrambled to within 128-125 on four free throws by Havlicek.

Dave Cowens stole the ball but Don Chaney missed from inside and, after several frantic tip attempts, the Celtics knocked the ball out of bounds and Milwaukee had possession with 13 seconds left. Jones and Robertson each put in two free throws in the final seconds to offset a layup by Don Nelson.

Jo-Jo White and Cowens added 28 and 26 points, respectively, for Boston.

Disturbance at NAIA Playoff

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Police said 15 persons were injured Monday night in a disturbance that broke out following the Southern State-Arkansas AM&N basketball game in the NAIA District 17 playoffs here.

Officers said fighting broke out after Southern State defeated AM&N 92-82. AM&N is a predominantly black school at Pine Bluff. The Southern State student body is predominantly white.

Officers said the melee apparently was triggered by a skirmish between two blacks near an exit. Police said they quickly broke up the fight, but then blacks began throwing chairs, bottles and other objects onto the basketball court.

Wilson Hansard of Arkadelphia, a spectator who suffered severe facial lacerations when struck by a chair, said he did not see what started the disturbance "but all at once it seemed as though everyone was on the floor."

"I was looking for a way to get out of there," Hansard said, "and when I looked around chairs were flying through the air and one struck me in the face." Hansard said he was taken to a hospital where he received 25 stitches in his chin.

The playoffs had originally been scheduled for Pine Bluff, but racial tension in that city caused the District 17 committee to change the site to Arkadelphia.

Chief of Police Marvin Miller of Arkadelphia, who was at the game when the disturbance broke out, said he thought some AM&N students were upset because the tournament was moved. "That could have been one of the reasons for the disturbance," he said.

About 60 State Troopers were sent into Arkadelphia when the fighting broke out. Capt. Jim Ross of the State Police said windows were broken out in the gym, automobile windshields were smashed and other scattered vandalism was reported on the campus of Ouachita Baptist University, where the game was being played.

Ross said of the 15 persons injured only one required hospitalization.

Pros. Atty. W.H. "Dub" Arnold of Arkadelphia said "from all indications" black students from AM&N started the fighting.

"There were no white students involved except those defending themselves," he said.

Showdown Time in College Play

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
"It's showdown time," said Adolph Rupp ... and he was talking about Adolph Rupp.

In what may have been Rupp's last home game, the veteran coach's Kentucky Wildcats thrashed Auburn 102-67 Monday night and set up a Thursday showdown with Tennessee for the Southeastern Conference's berth in the NCAA Basketball Tournament. The Vols, meanwhile, whipped Vanderbilt 87-74.

Although university regulations say this is the 70-year-old Rupp's final season, Kentucky's president, Dr. Otis Singletary, said that "no announcement will be made until the Baron of Basketball makes it himself."

Rupp was mum on that subject, although calls and telegrams began pouring in early in the day and 18 of his greatest players came back for a visit.

With Tom Parker scoring seven of his game-high 29 points, Kentucky rushed to a 9-0 lead and piled up a 26-point bulge by halftime. Stan Key added 23 points and Jim Andrews had 18.

Auburn's Bill Lynn, said Kentucky "played better than anybody we saw all year."

That's almost what was said about Tennessee after sophomores Len Kosmalksi and John Snow led the Vols past Vanderbilt with 29 and 26 points, respectively.

Tennessee's Ray Mears said his club played well for a longer stretch than at any other time and Vandy's Roy Skinner added, "I certainly haven't seen Tennessee playing better at any other time this season."

Elsewhere, another showdown was arranged as all five starters hit in double figures to pace fourth-ranked Louisville to a 102-83 rout of Tulsa. The Cardinals and Memphis State will play off Saturday night for the Missouri Valley crown and an NCAA berth.

Louisville's Jim Price scored 24 points and Henry Bacon added 22 as the Cards grabbed a 19-3 lead before Tulsa managed a field goal. The margin was sliced to one point late in the first half before Louisville pulled away again.

Good Day for Clemente

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"The greatest accomplishment to me," said Roberto Clemente, "is the way I have played all my life."

The Pittsburgh Pirates' outfielder said Monday it will be one or two more seasons before he closes his baseball career. He's giving himself time to get 118 hits, enough to crack the 3,000-hit mark reached by only 11 other players.

"I don't let anything bother me to play this game," he said after a workout at the Pirates' Bradenton, Fla., spring training camp. "If I hit the ball back to the pitcher, I run hard. If I hit the ball back to second base, I run hard. If I miss a ball in the outfield, I run hard after the ball. And I think that all the time I try hard playing this game, I think that has to be my biggest accomplishment."

Clemente, 37, has been a National League All Star 11 times and has hit in all 14 World Series games in which he has played.

Elsewhere in spring training, Jim Fregosi of the New York Mets has been sidelined for at least a month with a broken right thumb. He suffered the fracture during infield practice Sunday but the break wasn't diagnosed until Monday.

The St. Louis Cardinals said they haven't heard from super holdout Joe Torre, one of the team's four unsigned players. General Manager Bing Devine hasn't said if he plans to invoke the "renewal clause" to bring the four to camp.

The clause says if the players is unsigned the club will announce by March 10 the player as signed at a salary set by the club with a pay cut of no more than 20 per cent. What it means is the player is to negotiate during the training period.

Sensitive Music Favored

Rounding out the field will be Forsty Brown, 113; Fire Fire, 118; Wa Wa Gale, 113; King Hoss, 113, and Excello, 113.

In Monday's $8,000 feature race, Flying Drifter took full measure of six other Arkansas Derby hopefuls, including highly regarded Our Trade Winds.

Racing for the first time in contention over a distance, the colt clicked off six furlongs in 1:11.4-5 and finished the fast 1 mile and 70 yards in a good 1:41.1-5.

As fourth-choice to even-money favorite Our Trade Winds, the winner returned $16.20, $6.40 and $3.20. Second choice Brick Door paid $3.60 and $2.60 and Our Trade returned $2.40 for show.

Jockey John Lively scored a winning double Monday. He was aboard Flying Drifter in the feature and Plucky Risk in the sixth.

States to Be Told to Repay Misspent Funds

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Already strapped by rising education costs, states will be told this spring to repay the federal government up to $30 million in allegedly misspent funds intended for poor children.

The nationwide crackdown promised six months ago by the U.S. Office of Education has been stalled pending development of a formal enforcement policy.

"We just about have that policy down to the point where we're going to visit Commissioner (Sidney P.) Marland about it," Deputy Commissioner Duane J. Mattheis said in an interview. "Once implementation of the policy takes place, there are going to be a fair number of letters coming out very quickly."

Last September six states and the District of Columbia were told to write checks totaling $5.6 million, the amount they allegedly misspent under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Although Marland said seven more states would hear from him within a month, there has been no action except for a Jan. 26 letter to Minnesota seeking repayment of $311,107.

"The reason we didn't get more through was because so much flak developed in all kinds of quarters and our own procedures bogged down," said Mattheis.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has completed Title I audits for about 40 states, Mattheis said, and it is very unlikely any state will escape repayment demands.

"The ones we have seen thus far have not remotely approached anything similar to fraud or cheating or anything like that," he said. "In every instance they spent for legitimate facilities, equipment, or education programs but it was just not targeted to the guidelines." Between $1 billion and $1.5 billion a year has been spread among 16,000 of the nation's 18,000 school districts since the law was passed to help poor children catch up on reading and mathematics, and to provide them with hot lunches, clothing, and medical and dental care when necessary.

Wisconsin is the only state so far to repay the full amount requested, $33,336.

Late last year the Council of Chief State School Officers, which Mattheis described as a "very potent force in education," passed a resolution asking federal forgiveness of any Title I misexpenditures through fiscal 1969.

"What they were saying is, 'Those were set-up days and troublesome days and messy days and so it wasn't all that bad but, on the other hand, let's forget about that and start with 1969,'" he said. "I can't visualize that except by an act of Congress."

Noel Tugwell of Donaldson sold a cow and calf pair during the American Simmental Association's national sale in February at Fort Worth. The cow and % Simmental heifer sold for $5,000 to Pinecroft Ranch of San Augustine, Texas.

Tugwell's cow was sired by Bismarck, the proven American Breeders Service Simmental bull, considered by many to be the No. 1 bull in North America. Tugwell said the good selling prices would hold because of the fact that the animals cannot be exported directly from their native Europe.

March 18, Deadline for Grain Signup

With the March 18 deadline nearing for sign-up in the 1972 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs, some fifty to one hundred more farmers are expected in the Hempstead County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office for enrollment during the final week.

Through March 3, approximately 160 producers in Hempstead County had signed up for participation in one or more of the set-aside programs offered in 1972, according to Ralph Montgomery, ASCS County Committee Chairman.

"We've been recording about six sign-ups per day, but we expect that average to climb sharply during the last week of sign-up," he said. Total participation in Hempstead County is expected to number about 250 farms.

Farmers can begin to sign up early each day, he reported, starting at 7:30 A.M. when the local ASCS Office opens. The office closes at 4:30 P.M., and Montgomery said that any producer who is in the office before closing time will be enrolled that day.

In the 1972 voluntary farm programs, participants agree to set aside 25 percent of their farm's base or allotment of whatever crop or crops they sign up for. Options are offered for additional voluntary set-aside in the wheat and feed grain (corn, grain sorghum, barley) programs, in order to aid farmers in bringing production into better adjustment with market demand no option for more set-aside for upland cotton is offered, since cotton is in short supply.

In return for setting aside a portion of their productive land producers earn set-aside payments based on their farms' established yields for the program crops. Additionally, program crops on participating farms are eligible for support loans.

Producers are reminded by ASC Committee Chairman Montgomery that they may request set-aside inspection and measurement service at the same time they sign up for the farm programs. This service, which is provided at cost, offers a quality-and-quantity guarantee on set-aside acres.

Millions of Medicare Dollars Are Misspent

By G.C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Health insurance companies have misspent millions of Medicare dollars, federal auditors have found, because of business inefficiencies and excess payments to doctors.

Previously undisclosed audits by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare questioned practices ranging from the Purchase of 2,100 monogrammed golf balls to payment of $320 million to Florida doctors without assurance that the fees were reasonable.

The auditors' reports also showed that:

—Based on 129 processing errors found in 520 typical claims, the Colorado Medical Service (Blue Shield) paid in 1968 and 1969 an estimated $775,000 overcharge, plus $167,800 in duplicate bills, and another $1.5 million for unnecessary services by doctors.

—Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., between 1966 and 1969, made errors on 6.7 percent of Medicare bills. The 36,000 duplicate or excess payments totaled $1.2 million.

—Aetna Life Insurance Co. had an 8.5-percent error rate between 1967 and 1969, issuing 156,000 excess or duplicate checks totalling $4.5 million.

—13.5 percent of Medicare doctor bills paid by Florida Blue Shield between 1967 and 1970 were processed with error or deficiency.

—Massachusetts Blue Shield made duplicate Medicare payments of $1.9 million between 1968 and 1968.

—In 1970, Accidental Life Insurance Co. paid $3.2 million in Medicare benefits to Southern California doctors who had "past histories of irregular or unusual billing practices." Some of these doctors had already been indicted for Medicare fraud, the audit said.

Spokesmen for the Social Security Administration and the insurance companies said many of the deficiencies disclosed by the audits have been remedied. Some insurers also challenge portions of the findings, objecting to the HEW auditors' statistical projections of mis-spending from an analysis of sample payments.

The claims of corrective action could not be verified. The audits run two years late, and the Social Security Administration won't open current files to newsmen.

A staff report of the Senate Finance Committee on the 33 Blue Shield plans, 15 commercial companies, and two independent insurers acting as Medicare payment agents for doctor bills had this to say:

"Carrier performance under Medicare has in the majority of instances been erratic, inefficient, costly and inconsistent with congressional intent ..."

Thomas M. Tierney, who runs the Medicare program for the government, had a different assessment.

"I think in the over-all, they (carriers and intermediaries) have done an effective job in administering a very complex program," he said. "This is not to say there are not problems."

The insurance companies and "blue" plans funnel government money to health institutions and doctors who treat Medicare patients. They assume no risk, administrative expenses are paid in full and no profit is allowed.

The HEW audit findings, which will be aired this month at hearings by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, are serving as ammunition for proponents of government-run health insurance.

"The weaknesses demonstrated in the audits should disqualify business from any role in new health-care insuring arrangements," said Max Fine, executive director of the Committee for National Health Insurance.

President Nixon, among others, proposes to funnel billions of dollars into the carriers and an expanded, government-required and subsidized health insurance.

Part of Drug Bill Vetoed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers Monday vetoed a bill that would have set new penalties for persons who sell illegal narcotics to minors.

Bumpers said one of the reasons he disapproved of the measure, sponsored by Sen. Harold King of Sheridan, was that it reduced penalties in many cases.

The governor signed all other bills approved by last month's special legislative session that he had not signed earlier. These included two other drug bills, including one that establishes a "rebuttable presumption" that any person caught with more than a specified amount of illegal drugs in his possession can be presumed to possess the drugs for sale, a felony violation.

Bumpers' veto message on the drug bill he disapproved said that Act 590 of 1971 carried severe penalties for persons over the age of 18 who provide illegal drugs to a person three years his junior or younger.

The governor said the effect of King's bill would be to raise the age to 21 years or older.

In addition, he said, it would set a uniform penalty for the sale of all controlled drugs, regardless of the classification now set by law. Under existing law, the penalties vary according to the drug sold.

Under King's bill, penalties included jail terms of up to 15 years on a first offense, up to 30 years on a second offense and up to 99 years on a third conviction.

Garry L. Brewer, an aide to Bumpers, said Act 590 provided penalties of up to 30 years in prison on the first offense for selling hard narcotics such as heroin.

Another bill of the special legislative session, approved by Bumpers, would double those penalties.

Brewer said the second offense penalties also would be tougher than under King's bill, although the penalty for a third conviction would be less.

Valves Can Get Blocked

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have recently been told I have mitral stenosis and will most likely need surgery in time. I had rheumatic fever as a child which is what caused this condition. I have lived with it for 33 years and enjoyed reasonably good health. Why then would I need surgery? I have a persistent cough and am very nervous. Is this related to the disease? What would be done in surgery and what kind of recovery is there?

Dear Reader—I will assume your statement is correct and that you have mitral stenosis. Now, of course, I can't tell you how severe it is just on the basis of the information in your letter.

For the benefit of other readers, mitral stenosis involves the valve in the left side of the heart at the opening between the upper sac-like chamber called the left atrium and the lower heavy pumping chamber called the left ventricle. This valve is formed by two big leaflets and when the two leaves close together it prevents the backflow of blood when the heart is pumping blood out to the rest of the body. As a complication of rheumatic fever, scars form over these two leaflets until they become bound together and can't open properly. This obstructs the opening between the upper and lower part of the heart and the reduced opening of the mitral valve is then called mitral stenosis.

The changes in the valve occur slowly after rheumatic fever. Not everyone who has rheumatic fever develops it. The gradual change makes the opening get smaller and smaller until finally it is so small that it begins to cause trouble in the function of the heart. Sometimes the mitral stenosis is so severe that the opening is as small as the end of a cigarette. This causes pressure to build up behind the obstructed valve which leads to engorgement of the lungs with blood. This can indeed cause a cough which you complain of. It can also cause shortness of breath and sometimes cause people to cough up blood if one of the engorged blood vessels ruptures.

Whether a person needs surgery or not depends a lot on how big the opening is. If there is very little obstruction surgery can be postponed or avoided.

STEALS DAY'S TAKE
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A man went up to the cashier's window of a theatre just before closing time, poked a gun at her nose and demanded the day's receipts.
The film being shown was "The Hot Rock," a story involving the theft of a priceless diamond.

We offer our most grateful and heartfelt appreciation for each expression of sympathy in the recent death of our Loved one.
Except for the sustaining grace of God and the love and loyalty of friends and loved ones our grief would be more than we could bear.
May God Bless You.

Has New Hope for Economic Uplift

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rosy government report on business spending for modernization has given the Nixon administration new hope in the pace of the economic recovery. The Commerce Department reported that the nation's industries are expected to increase their spending for plant improvement and equipment by 10.5 per cent in 1972. A 9-per-cent gain was anticipated in an earlier survey. And if businesses do increase spending plans by 10.5 per cent this year, it will mean a drastic change in what was the weakest sector of the economy last year.

Would Amend Petition

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court was petitioned Monday by the state Bar Association to amend an ABA petition for adoption of additional rules of criminal procedure. The originally proposed Rule 6 would have prohibited the use of photographic, television and sound projecting or recording equipment by newsmen at trials, but a proposed amendment would prohibit such use only when it was "for the purpose of, or with the intent to, thereafter broadcast or project the same to the public." Proposed Rule 7 would have prohibited law enforcement officers "from deliberately posing any person in their custody" for photographing by newsmen, unless the person in custody requested that he be permitted to have his picture taken. The ABA petition proposed modification of that proposed rule to provide an additional sentence providing that "Nothing in this rule shall prohibit the taking of photographs of persons in custody when such persons are in public areas, other than courtrooms, such as being taken to and from the jail or courthouse."

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The male coyote is an unselfish and attentive "family man," who ill deserves his infamous reputation as a predator, states Ezra Bowen in "The High Sierra," first volume in Time-Life Books' American Wilderness series. The coyote brings food to his pregnant wife, plays with the pups, helps the family to move to a new den and, Eskimo-style, touches noses with wife and friends when returning from a hunt.

Prize Your Red Hair

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Girls who have red hair should prize it highly. It is odd that so many who do have it regard it more as an affliction than a distinction. Blondes often look alike; redheads rarely do. The easiest way to drive a dieter frantic is to sit next to him at a restaurant counter and order a piece of pecan pie topped with whipped cream. Words can become endangered things, too, and have to fight for survival, just as do scarce forms of plant and animal life. The two words that seem to be struggling hardest for existence in our beset civilization are "thank you." The more crowded we become, the less we hear them. An old-timer is a man who can remember when the only ones who knew what a woman's navel looked like were herself and her family doctor. There is no real difference between a man who eats too many peanuts and a man who eats too many radishes. Both share the same vice: Whatever they do, they are never content with doing it until they have done it to excess. They don't want satisfaction; they want to be punished for doing what they like. One of the troubles with growing up is that we find our pleasures must become more complicated. We lose much of our joy in simple things. Why can't a man at 40 get the same thrill out of tasting snow that he did when he was only 4? The snow doesn't change; its flavor is eternal. An optimist is a guy with a $50 toupee who thinks he can brave the winds of March hatless. The average office worker has as many vanities as an Oriental despot. Rank is just as important to him as it is to the despot, but it is shown in smaller ways. No bugles blow when he makes an entrance, and he has no reserved parking place with his name on it. But if he is given a private coathanger separate from his fellows, he'd rather have that than a $10-a-week raise.

Black Teacher Files Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dolores M. Wagener of Little Rock, who has taught in the Little Rock School District for 15 years, filed suit Monday in U.S. District Court saying she was fired because she was black. She was dismissed from a teaching post at the all-white Western Hills school, to which she had been transferred involuntarily, she said. She said the only explanation given for her firing was that the white principal wanted her dismissed. The suit asks that she be reinstated, paid, and notified in advance of any future dismissal action and be granted a hearing on it.

Innocent Plea to Murder

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Michael McGuire, 20, of Little Rock pleaded innocent by reason of insanity Monday on a first-degree murder charge. The charge stems from the death Dec. 29 of Don Anthoni Nickerson, 29, at his North Little Rock home. John Keith Hensley, 20, of Little Rock pleaded innocent to a charge of being an accessory to murder, and he and Linda Kaye Benton, 20, of Little Rock pleaded innocent to possession of stolen property.

Pay Board Against Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor members of the Pay Board have for the first time voted against complete approval of a pay increase, helping pare down a 10.6-per-cent raise for Ohio state employees. After the vote Monday night the five said they had acted under protest to head off an even bigger cutback for the 56,000 government workers involved. But one public member of the board said he took the unprecedented vote as a sign that the union members are becoming more willing to compromise when the occasion demands. "The encouraging thing was that the heat was a little less intense in there," he said. Some earlier Pay Board meetings have reportedly been little less than shouting matches. In the Ohio case, the labor members chose what seemed to them the lesser of two evils. Always before they had supported approval of pay raises without any modifications. They won, with the help of business members, on coal miners and railroad men, and lost on aerospace workers.

But Monday night the five joined three public members to tell Ohio it must either delay its scheduled raise by about two months or cut it into two parts, giving some this year and some next. Either way, Ohio employees would get less money than the state legislature and Democratic Gov. John Gilligan had promised. The five business members of the Pay Board voted against the move, saying they would grant only what would be allowed under the board's standard regulations.
